LEVARE STUDIO

EFFECTIVE WEBSITE CHECKLIST

2024

INTRODUCTION

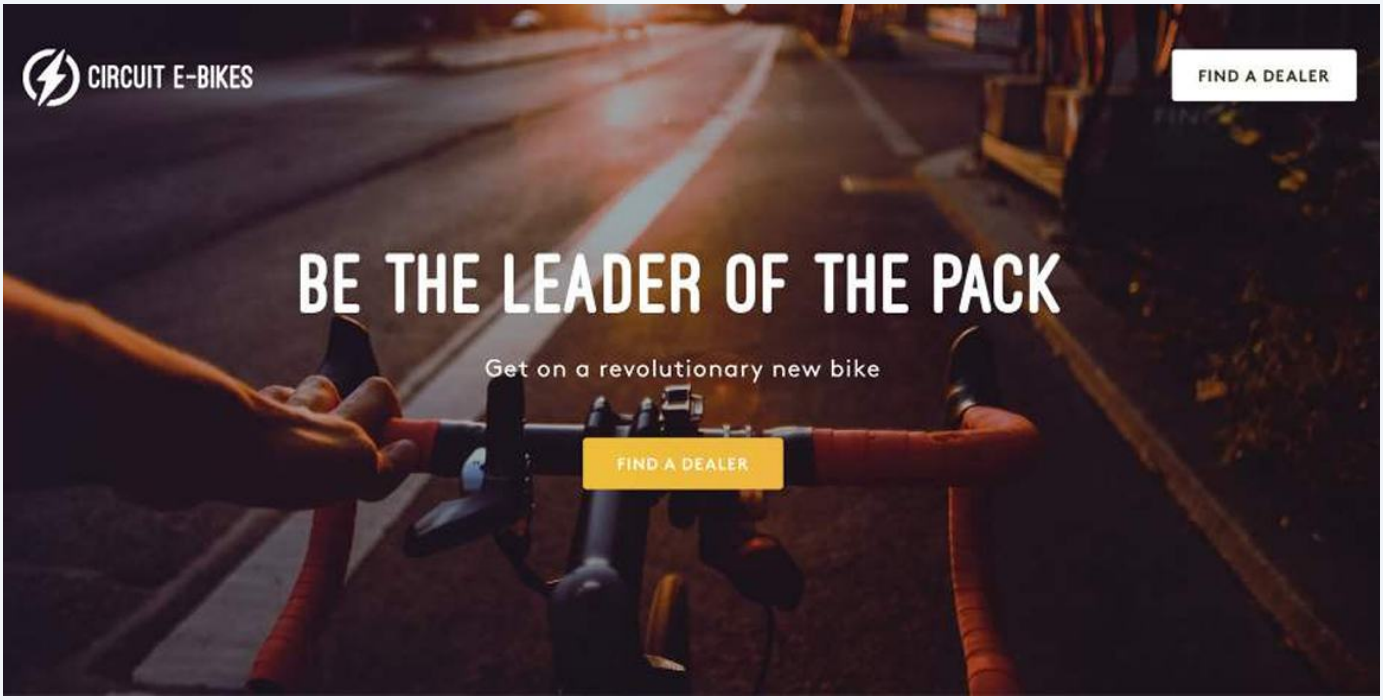
Levare Studio Website Checklist

When a customer lands on your website, you only have a few seconds to communicate why they should do business with you.

The following are the nine elements of a website that have been proven to increase sales. They are each like hooks in the pond and the more of them you include, the more fish you will catch.

The Hero Section (1/9)

It lies at the very top of your website and is the first thing people will see.
It must clearly explain what you offer, how people can get it, and how it will make their lives better. People don't read websites, they scan them, so keep the text minimal.



Checklist

- Clearly communicate what your business offers
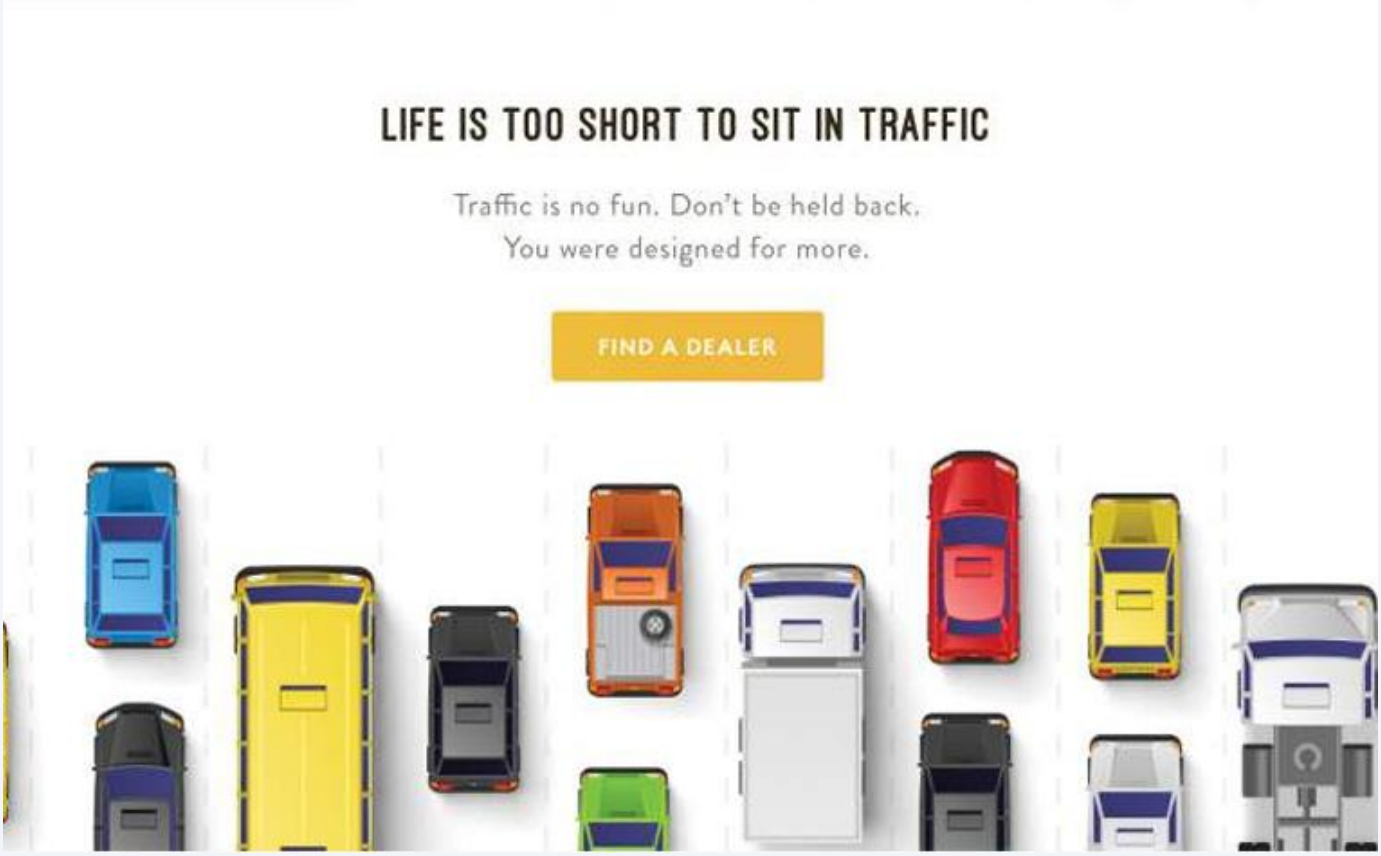
- Explain how your product or service will make your customer's life better
- Make it easy for you customer to purchase your product or service
- Display photos depicting the aspirational success of your customer after purchasing from you

The Stakes (2/9)

This section explains what pain you are saving customers from. What is it going to cost the customer if they don't do business with you?

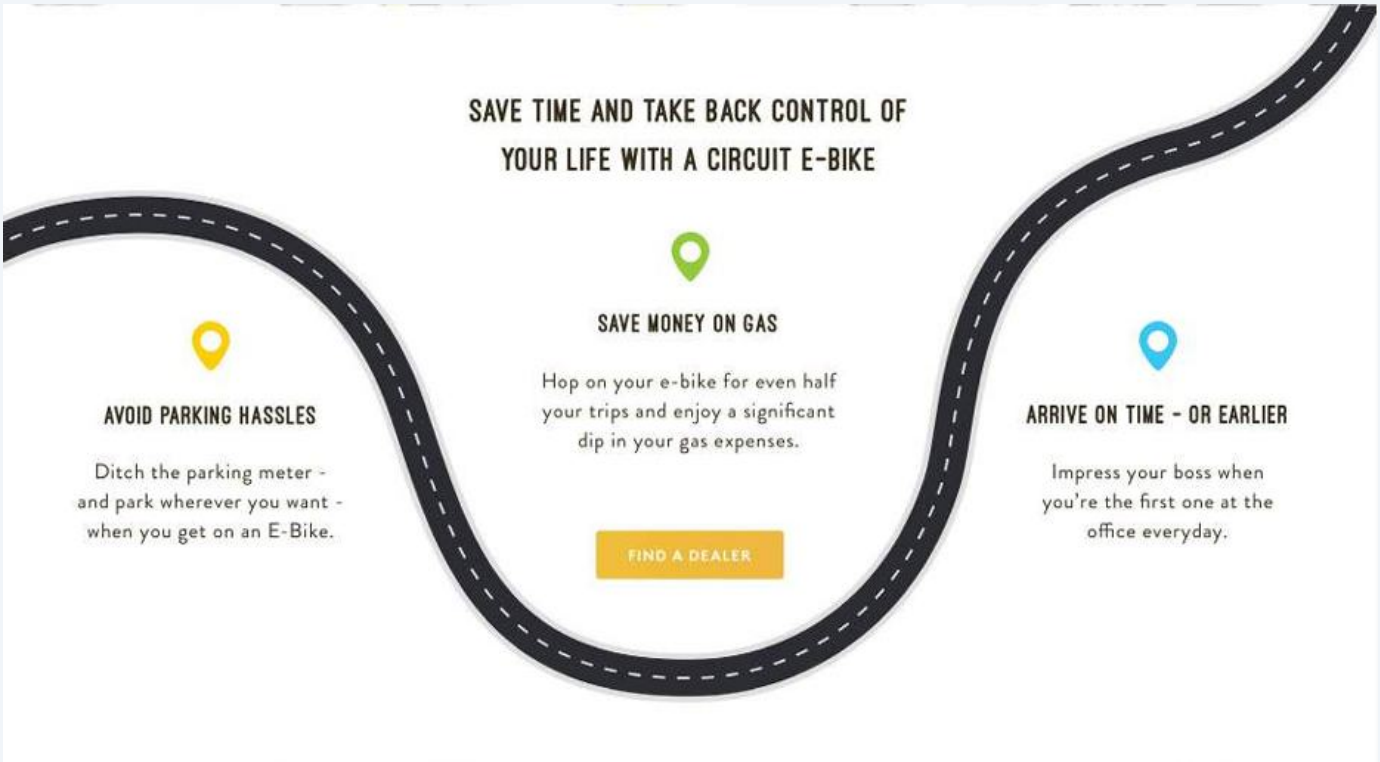


Checklist

- Explain the negative consequences your customer will experience if they don't do business with you or buy your product.

Value Proposition (3/9)

This section adds value to your product and service by listing its benefits. List three or four things your customer will get as a result of engaging with your brand

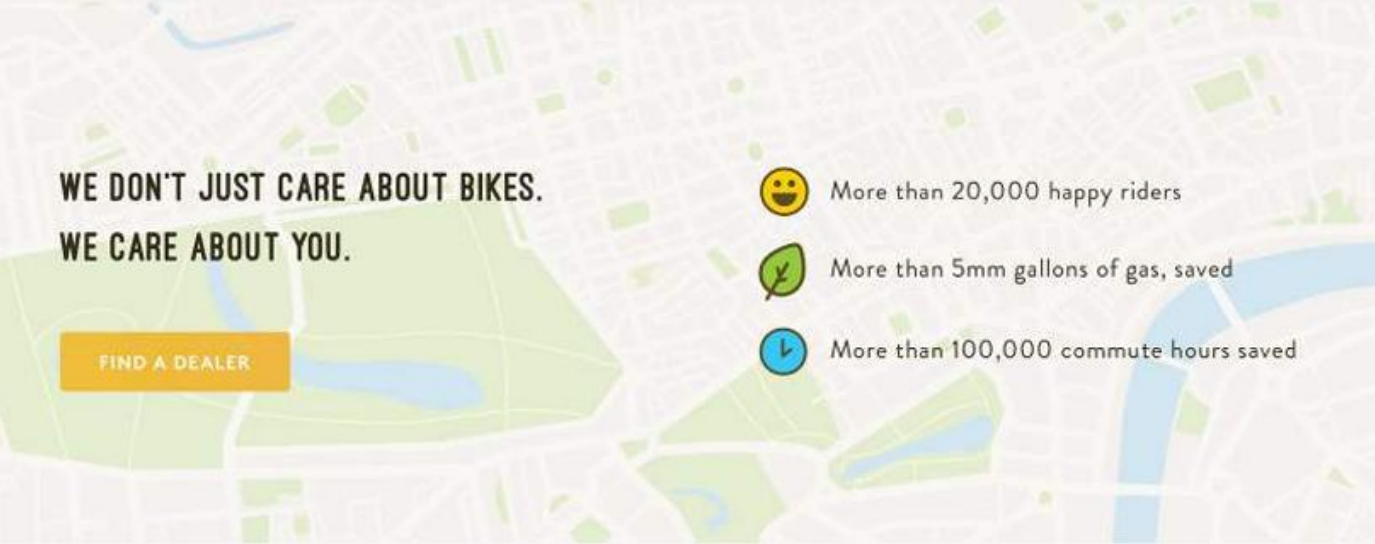


Checklist

- Use icons/graphics and a bold title above the descriptions
- Communicate success, explain the value or success you will deliver to your customers

The Guide (4/9)

This section positions yourself or your brand as the guide who can solve your customer's problem by demonstrating empathy and explaining why you are competent to solve your customer's problem.



Checklist

- Empathize with your customer's problems
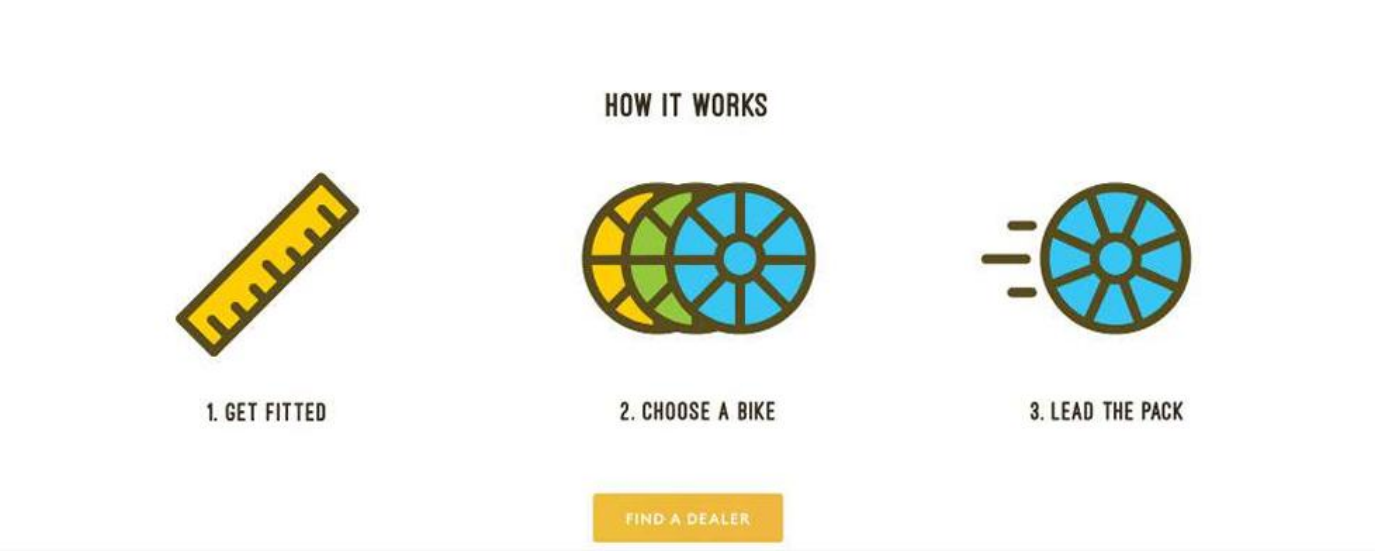
- Demonstrate your authority (testimonials, logos of brands you've worked with, statistics)

The Plan (5/9)

Reveal the path a customer can take to do business with you and solve their problem. The key is to make the process of doing business with you look as easy as possible using steps, 3 steps is ideal, don't go over 4.



Checklist

- Display a plan that will lift the fog for your customer, ("3 Easy Steps" with descriptions of each step and a title)

Explanation Section (6/9)

In this explanatory section you can go a little more in-depth. This section is a long-form explanation of what you do and how you solve your customer's problem. Your customers will read this section and feel that they have done their due diligence before buying your product. This is also where you can improve your SEO.

Checklist

- State the problem you solve, the solution your brand offers, and the success that your customers will experience
- Make any additional text collapsible

Lead Generator (7/9)

A lead generator allows a customer to engage with your brand in exchange for contact information without having to place an order. Good lead generators are typically PDFs or videos. You can use a pop-up to bring attention to your lead generator, as well as having a static section on your homepage.

Checklist

- Give it a catchy title
- Collect an email address
- Make sure the copy inside “sells” the download button

Price Choices (optional) (8/9)

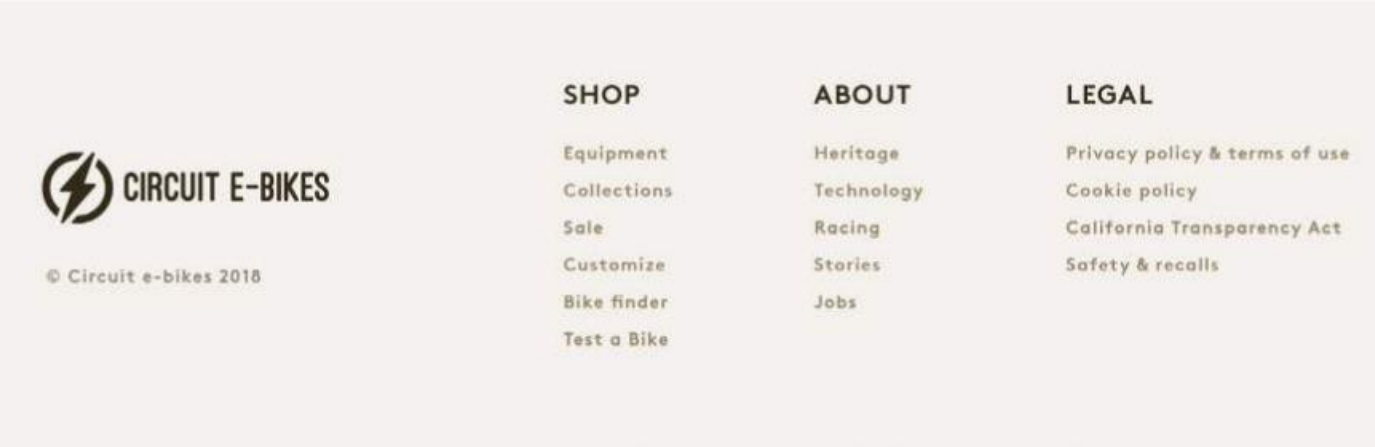
If you have different divisions of your company or products/packages with different pricing, you can create a specfic section to highlight those.

Checklist

- Package your products to make it easy to buy
- Include bite-sized breakdowns of your product or service

Junk Drawer (Footer) (9/9)

People will scroll down for the login, job opportunities, and even contact information. Don't junk up your website with too many links that delude the "buy now" button. Instead, place all that stuff at the bottom of the page in the junk drawer.



Checklist

- FAQ
- Employment opportunities
- Contact methods
- Blog & Other Pages
- Social links
